The bereavement journey
(an understanding of bereavement services)

11 February 2019, Central London
The Bereavement Journey
(Including an understanding of bereavement services)

Introduction

APSE training and the Institute of Cemetery and Crematorium Management (ICCM) are offering a one day skills development event to help delegates fully understand the meaning of bereavement services and the natural journey undertaken by the bereaved.

This event will explain what is involved in providing the service, the range of sectors involved, the different people skills required and what is meant by “understanding the bereaved”.

The course will also consider the issues faced by staff in carrying out bereavement services.

Outcomes:

- Understand the meaning of bereavement services
- Identify the different customers within the sector
- Appreciate what skills are required to deliver an excellent bereavement service
- Gain awareness of the bereavement curve
- Recognise the importance of customer care your role
- Taking action to improve your performance

Who Will Benefit?

Those who are looking to refresh or gain awareness of the bigger picture of bereavement services from sections such as:

- Admin dealing with burials, cremations and memorial bookings
- Cemetery operations - grave diggers
- Crematorium operations - cremator technicians
- Other grounds maintenance work in cemeteries

Trainers

The sessions will be delivered by David McCarthy ICCM, supported by Jan Kennedy from APSE.

ICCM

The Institute of Cemetery & Crematorium Management, currently in its centenary year, was formed to become a knowledge base for those working in cemeteries and crematoria. Since that time the Institute has developed accredited training and educational programmes for all staff at all levels within this sensitive service area.
The Institute’s customer care training course is unlike any other generic course as it is service specific and provides an understanding of loss and grief and the effects that this can have on bereaved people. By gaining an understanding of the grief journey candidates will be better equipped to serve the bereaved in a sympathetic and tolerant manner.

David McCarthy - ICCM

David McCarthy FICCM (Dip)(Hons) is the Technical Services and Guidance Manager of the Institute of Cemetery and Crematorium Management (ICCM). David’s career in the field of bereavement spans 25 years firstly with the City of London Cemetery and Crematorium where he worked his way up through the various areas of the service until he obtained the position of Cemetery and Crematorium Manager. For the past 5 years he has worked full time for the ICCM.

Before his involvement with the specialist field of bereavement care David worked as a Presentations Manager for a Multi-National company specialising in communications. This involved the construction and delivery of training courses and working on promotional events both in the UK and overseas.

David has a wide experience in delivering training with a special emphasis on our legal training on Exclusive Rights of Burial which is the training course that David researched and put together as part of his Thesis to obtain his Diploma with Honours.

David has been delivering the ICCM Customer Care Course since it was first developed for professionals working in the highly sensitive area of bereavement.

David can be contacted via his email address: davidiccm@btinternet.com or though the ICCM National Office 0208 989 4661
